Submission: I strongly disagree with the possibility of further amalgamation for the City of Sydney which is one of the best run Councils in the country. No graft and corruption, good services provided on time and for moderate cost, attention paid to the provision of civilized infrastructure to service the needs of the community. All could be lost in the disruption over several years caused by the amalgamation that you are suggesting. The City of Sydney already has to accommodate the infrastructure plans of the State Government which are already in train. To add to the difficulties the citizens will have to endure over the next few years could damn Sydney for years.
