I would like to point out some of my concerns relating to Water NSW Corporation and the excessive charges applied to irrigation farmer in the Lachlan Valley which are much higher than most other major rivers in NSW especially the Murry river which unfairly disadvantages Lachlan river irrigators and I believe that water pricing should be uniform throughout NSW and not be influenced by lobby groups and political pressure .I also believe that Water NSW should not be allowed to unnecessarily exploit irrigators by wasting large sums of irrigator's money by establishing a Climate risk assessment team and stick to manage water as there are many government agencies already wasting large sums of money on that junket ,another area of concern is that irrigators are not the only water consumers on the rivers and are all water users sharing the cost equally IE.is environmental water charged at the same rate as high security and if not it must be to be fair and equitable ? Another area of concern is the new meter rules and the use of Tele metering and the cost off installation and ongoing costs associated with them especially for small irrigators with multiple pump sites making these enterprises less viable if not unviable, also with strict compliance rules enforced around water ordering and lag times and unreliable weather forecasting dicission are made to comply at the cost of making the correct decision for the crop resulting crop losses or damage which must be addressed as we have a enough problems with pests and diseases and ,parasites and weather to contend with .
