Hey, A ridiculous increase. How do you expect people to pay these increases when they are on top of insane inflation (noting wages are now massively behind) 1) Zero trust in your leadership. How many years have you under invested in to drive such a dramatic increase (and it excludes inflation!!) per year. Have you had zero conversations with the governments to understand people growth or commitments from governments to grow population? For over 10 years? 2) As per normal, companies like yourself have been undercharging the older generation and the current generation now has to pick up the bill. 3) What is your past track record on delivering large scale, large cost projects? 4) How can you run so many consecutive projects at the same time? 5) How many giga litres of water are lost from broken pipes? Seems the % of spend on pipes is way too low? 6) What are your controls for regaining control of budgets assuming they blow out? 7) Who is responsible if budgets go over and no way to regain financial control?
