Submission: To force the amalgamation of City of Sydney with other local authorities in the manner proposed is a deliberate act of sabotage against my Council. It is set up to fail and when that happens the state government will be in a position to say "told you so" and abolish the CoS - which has been the long term aim by state governments of both sides of politics. It is not in the best interests of the CoS nor its residents and businesses. You only have to look at what is happening across CoS - long term planning, future proofing, residential and commercial excellence through environmental requirements and infrastructure - to know that this Council and its Lord Mayor works in the best interests of all its citizens. That is it in a nutshell, nothing more to be said.
