To whom this may concern, I am writing this submission knowing that you probably will not read it, because you made it so hard for me to find the way into make it in the first place. I am probably one of those people you would class as a dumb farmer, always working, just to pay the bills forced on us by people in air conditioned offices who can put their salaries up when ever they like, to match the CPI. We can not do that. Our costs go up and up but we have to take what the market dictates to us. We are the ones who suffer when the weather turns bad, when our crops get rained on and ruined or our animals die. We are the stupid ones who work well past the 30 to 40 hours week that you people would work, to feed the nation and the world. You know full well that our land is worth less without water, but if we cannot afford to pay for it what do we do, sell our land off to solar farms filled with imported Chinese solar panels and sell our Water rights to overseas Superannuation companies and then Australia can import all its food. You people need to start living in the real world and do some real work for a change, the real farmers and hard working people are sick of carrying you all.
