

Author name: K. Chidwick

Date of submission: Saturday, July 18, 2015

Submission: I live in Glebe and I DON'T want the current City of Sydney to be amalgamated into a "mega-council" for the City. Such a mega-council will be too large and include too high a population which I believe will lead to a lower quality service than we receive here currently. City of Sydney is definitely fit for the future and do a fantastic job so far.

It is worrying that the government is planning to amalgamate these council areas into a mega-council without sufficient evidence that such a move will be beneficial in regards to economic outcomes or efficiencies. This is not acceptable in my view.