Submission: I strongly oppose amalgamation for City of Sydney.

The City is :

- economically strong
- a great place to live and work
- already big enough
- an environmental leader

There is no justification for amalgamation.

City of Sydney Council is an extraordinarily successful council. It is economically efficient, environmentally friendly, and has implemented so many incredible programmes to make the city a vibrant place to live and work. Amalgamation would make the council much too large (it has a population far greater than any other LGA as it is), and would jeopardise many of the most innovative and effective programmes. No other Council has been able to achieve the changes which the City has achieved over recent years, and amalgamation would put all that at risk.
