

Author name: M. Britten

Date of submission: Monday, 31 October 2022

Your submission for this review:

Whilst I have no objection to the concept, the structure of how contributions are determined using the tool kit and as applied to coastal towns and villages can have a large impact on good and necessary development in and around those towns and villages with the cost of assessing and complying and then paying as assessed , using the toolkit , is prohibitive to necessary good development. As Ive said the concept of protecting biodiversity is good but the implementation is counter productive given the high fire risk in these same areas Michael Britten