Way to go ipart you have a fox in the chicken coop and your answer is lets get more chickens and throw them in and hope for a different result, That my dear friends is what is called caught in a rut . You cannot fix ccc by throwing more money at it and especially when it is not your hard earned dollars. They got an injection of funds via your passing their rate increase but you could not wait to see if the cheetah had changed its colours. Now it is back looking for the increase up to another 7 years. You realistically think that the council will pour all its [REDACTED] funds into improving water supply and improvements to infrastructure. This council has shown by its previous misgivings that it is incapable of managing its finances and your answer is lets give them more. Maybe lets have patience and see how they perform with their new found wealth before giving them more. Their arrogance in their treatment of ratepayers is atrocious try ringing them up and talk to them sorry they do not answer and expect people to email them. Bad sign of mismanagement and hiding from the very people that pay their wages. We the older generation who are in the majority on the central coast prefer to talk to people rather than sending off emails. They dont need more money need to trim the tree and probably cut back on the fertiliser . Wage cutting should not be off the table because if they were capable of doing the job we would not be in the predicament we are now facing . Will an injection of funds fix the problems facing this council in my honest opinion not likely. If this body was a company it would already be would have been wound up maybe we should have a look at doing things differently you know what they say doing the same thing and expecting a different outcome. Every barrel has a bottom only this council did not believe that. Refuse this blatant money grab and tell them go away and concentrate on doing your job. Refuse Refuse Refuse
