Given the maintenance currently required & the proposed expansion of infrastructure for Sydney region there are significant costs. Weve been in a user pays environment for sometime now. Ultimately of the utilities water is the cheapest. Good on you for offering the information to the users and seeking feedback. Water currently is about 1/3 my council rates, & similar for electricity and gas as a comparison. Given your advance notice and reasoning I have no issue with the cost increases. As long as inflation plays ball and doesnt leap again in the near future.
