You are able to do this because its a state-based government monopoly. If there was competition, you simply couldn't. So basically, this is a hidden HUGE TAX INCREASE. Absolutely OUTRAGING given that already government policies are putting the real economy (private sector) down to its knees and the tax burden considering federal, state and council taxes is HUGE for the average Sydney-sider. I don't really believe somebody in the IPART will care about this, but if you do - please consider that all of this government measures are making life in Sydney something very far from the dream it used to be and people will take decisions based on this. Even for a practical point of view, you will loose lots a taxpayers eventually.
