

Author name: P. Martin

Date of submission: Wednesday, July 22, 2015

Submission: City of Sydney is not best served by amalgamating.

The population density is too high and transport infrastructure is critical.

If the transport issue was solved as it is in other major cities of the world then this may be possible but the inner city has needs which are so different to those of the outer suburbs it can not be in our interest for them to be lumped together.

How many councils does Canberra have? 350000 people, good roads, not too much traffic congestion, expanding population, lots of planning and development going on.....

Seven.