Submission: I am strongly opposed to the amalgamations. Leichhardt is already a good sized community and there are no benefits, social or financial, from combining the municipality with other populations. I have every confidence in, and am well satisfied with the efficiency of the local administration, and I am certain that to force us to submerge our local identity under some arbitrary grouping of unrelated entities will badly affect the tone of life in this part of Sydney. Listen to the people who know what they need, the residents of Leichhardt.
