Dear ipart Manager As an active irrigator and food producer I understand the need to maintain services and assets and that this must be funded appropriately, however my business can't tell the consumer that food is going up by almost 300 % over the next 4 years and trust me I will use those increases responsibly and nor should you. Show me the benefits, show me how these increases will assist me the direct customer, and show me how you are using innovation and Tech to drive productivity like I need to and the impact you will have on the sustainability of food production with the proposed increases. It is also important that all users pay not just those who are easy to invoice, the environment, tourism, and towns all rely in the regulation of rivers and water storage and as such could be founded by national and state revenue sources in addition to direct water users, after all we are working with National and State water plans. Please consider fee increases more in align with inflation and increased serviced delivery over idealism. Kind regards Steve
