I am opposed to this increase in price as it only affects consumer and small business owners. You must stop this proposal and explore other avenues, such as a restructure of your business and cutting out high paying positions that aren't necessary for Sydney water to operate. Clearly, if you suddenly need to invest an extra $26.4 billion in expenditure is that some people have not done their jobs, so why does the hard worker Australian should pay for it? Another avenue, is to recoup the money lost from the policy you had set up with big property developers giving them rebates to not pay for costly water infrastructures. Or what about taxing our friends at Total and all other mine and gas companies polluting our waters. Why are these not even considered as options? Why is making the Australian citizen pay for your bad management the first and only option? Are you all so afraid of disrupting the board's fragile egos? Advance Australia FAIR - live by our values.
