Creating Opportunities

Last Friday was a historic day for the City of Canterbury, and an important one for many local residents, as Council formalised a new strategic partnership with TAFE SWSI.

Our new partnership with TAFE SWSI will enable Council to develop sustainable economic, social and employment development opportunities for our local community now and into the future.

This partnership builds on the existing strengths and collaborative activities of both the City of Canterbury and TAFE SWSI. We aim to share information, networks and, where appropriate, resources to create pathways to education and provide meaningful employment for local residents.

Council believes one of the best ways to improve the lives of local residents is through greater access to training and to job opportunities. To create that reality we will be rolling out three important projects to help the most vulnerable in the City of Canterbury.

The Young People in Lakemba project aims to provide young people with pathways to training and employment; the Eat Well and Tell project aims to promote healthy eating among local residents; and the Skilled Migrants and Employment project aims to boost employment outcomes for skilled migrants living in the City of Canterbury.

These three priority programs are currently being managed and implemented by project teams involving Council and TAFE SWSI staff. The outcomes of these and other projects will be reported to Council on a quarterly basis.

Both TAFE SWSI and the City of Canterbury deliver services to thousands of residents each year, with the aim of improving people's lives. Our new strategic partnership will allow both groups to work more closely together so we are able to identify and develop training programs that better meet the needs of local residents.
