Dear Dr Parry

The Bathurst Combined Pensioners and Superannuants Association and the Bathurst Public Transport Initiative represent a significant proportion of the elderly population of this rapidly expanding city. This group is increasingly dependent on local public transport (private bus system) and regional/metropolitan transport (Countrylink and CityRail).

For some two years past our memberships have continually expressed concern at the inequities in public transport fares for Seniors and Pensioners(S/P) between the public (STA) and private bus systems and between regional, outer metropolitan and inner metropolitan bus and train systems.

The present situation is thus as we understand it:

1. Regional travellers are able to travel 129 kms by Countrylink on S/P concession fares for $2.20 return, valid for seven days. While this is reasonable "deal" in closely settled areas, the inequity lies in villages and towns remote from large centres eg Nyngan-Dubbo, Wilcannia-Broken Hill, where the 129 km limit is meaningless.
2. While Bathurst is regarded as a CityRail station (except for XPT travel), Orange is not. The Bathurst S/P concession fare to the metropolitan transport system is $3.30 day return, with unrestricted travel on trains, STA ferries and STA buses. Folk from Orange and beyond pay half the Countrylink fare plus $1.10 for access to the metropolitan system. The latter folk are prevented from buying $3.30 S/P concession at Bathurst unless they wait two or more hours for a CityRail coach change. (In effect they are inclined to drive to Bathurst or Lithgow for the S/P concessions.)
3. S/P concession travellers pay $3.30 to, say, Penrith, plus a half-fare on local private buses, yet nothing more on reaching the STA system.
4. It is strongly evident that those who benefit most from the $1.10 inner metropolitan S/P concession are Seniors in the increasingly affluent inner suburbs. However in the less affluent outer suburbs, S/P concession travellers pay a half-fare on private buses, plus $1.10 (or more likely $2.20) for travel on CityRail (eg Wollongong, Blue Mountains @ $2.20)
5. Outer metropolitan CityRail S/P concession fares are $2.20 even for travelling short distances (eg Blaxland-Penrith), whereas this distance in inner suburbs costs only $1.10.
6. In regional centres no $1.10 S/P concession is available as these centres are universally serviced by private operators.

We have discussed these inequities at length and make the following recommendations:

1. That the 10% GST be removed for S/P concession fares and included within rounded dollar fares. Thus the $2.20 fare would become $2 (actually $1.80 + GST). This would bring concession fares roughly into line with inflation and the increase in pensions since 1988, which are in the range of 70%-75% over those fourteen years.

2. That the State be mapped in transport sectors of 100kms in both country and metropolitan regions, for which the minimum S/P concession would be $2, consisting of a $1 "flagfall"(or access) plus $1 for each 100km sector.

3. That this increase when applied to inner metropolitan travel be used to subsidize the whole of the private bus and ferry systems which would then also charge the $2 ($1 + $1) all-day S/P concession across all modes.

4. That these politically sensitive fare increases in the inner metropolitan region be rationalized as producing equity across the whole State, and are the first increase since 1988 (when inner suburbs were less affluent in senior terms than they are now). By contrast they would be universally appealing in other areas.

It is noted that the Commonwealth Government had allocated some $19million for the introduction of a National S/P concession (either as an election promise or a budget line?) provided all States adopted a uniform concession scheme.

Yours sincerely

A S Goodlet, President
Bathurst C.P.S.A.

B.P.T. I.
