Submission: The new meter installation practices have ruined a large part of my business. I used to be able to install meters to all relevant standards under AS3000 and the service rules of NSW as a level 2 electrician. Now I can't even get a start with the meter installers as I am a sole trader and it is not economically feasible to become a company. It has set back 3 years of business for myself and ruined many small businesses and I still can't figure out why it happened apart from lining the pockets of large companies.
