Submission: Great idea but implementation hopeless. Dubbo has 40000 people plus some are coming 200km to get rid of their containers only to find the machines full or out of order. I have been into recycling for 30 years and applaud the Government on introducing the scheme. Kids are picking up bottles and cans everywhere however still many businesses are still throwing the containers in the bin because 1 The money is not important and 2 It is not worthy the hassle of trying to get rid of them at the collection points. I would have been to the collection points 30 times and only got rid of my containers on half the occasions. We have a Kleenaway depot in Dubbo so why can that not be manned to take containers and reduce the hassles and save double handling a win win situation for all involved. The people that purchase the items do not notice 10 cents added on to 5 and 6 dollar items. If the public can not get rid of their containers when they want to they are going to throw them away or put them in landfill and we will be back to square 1.
