

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Thursday, 27 April 2017

Submission: It is absolutely STUPID that under the NSW Biofuels Act 2007 (Biofuels Act), volume fuel retailers must ensure that ethanol accounts for at least 6% of the total volume of petrol sold in any one quarter (ethanol mandate), unless they have been provided an exemption. This requirement is outside the control of the retailer. How can a government pass such a STUPID law? One effect is to restrict the availability of fuels other than E10. If you drive into a petrol station these days, every second pump is E10. I DON'T WANT E10. But I can't get it. Because the selection for fuels other than E10 is restricted. This is fundamentally restricting my ability as a consumer to buy what I want. How can a so-called liberal government tolerate such totalitarian behavior and legislation? I WANT FUEL OTHER THAN E10 AND OFTEN I CANNOT GET IT BECAUSE OF THE STUPID LEGISLATION AND POLICY OF THIS STUPID GOVERNMENT.