Submission: Why would you put a sewage system for the new estates that will ruin the beach? The beach is the reason people will move there. The estate isn't close to anything other than that beach. I'm assuming the only reason for such a lazy system is because of low cost. But that's only short term- with this new system, tourists and residents won't want to be around the area and that will effect the income of money drastically, especially over time. Also, will this new system be harmful to the environment? If so, that's a whole other issue that needs to be discussed.
