

Author name: D. Lesslie

Date of submission: Monday, 7 May 2018

Submission: Installing solar is an expensive minefield with a very steep learning curve. Those who go through with it are helping everyone by generating clean energy - real energy - and the powers that be seem always on the make to rip them off. Make me proud to be Australian. I support a decent feed-in tariff (60c/kWh) and you should too. Being cheap breeds contempt and encourages people to avoid dealing with the cheapskates.