Hi guys,

Guys I live in a small rural village in New England, NSW. I am not a wealthy man but recently chose, from a number of competing personal priorities, to install a battery ready 5kw solar energy system. I prioritised this choice because I believe it a morally just investment in the future of the next generations of Australians. Renewable energy is the necessary future of energy across the globe and I request that you put a just price on the personal production of energy, not so much for my economic benefit, but more to demonstrate respect to all Australians who are electing this future and to ensure the encouragement of an industry that will ultimately save a reasonable quality environment for our grandchildren to live in. Thank you for considering my request.

David Townes
