Submission: Well any more price hikes will result in more retailers going broke as we the public cut back on spending how about giving Australian born and breed a break from all these unnecessary price hikes that are only going into the pockets of CEO's and Government Mps.

There is no reason for any transport cost to go up in Australia already pay too much tax, while wages are going down hill and welfare is not rising to cover the cost of rent increases and we have price hikes every six months now ridiculous especially transport which is so poorly design and unreliable in the hands of private operates without state government adding to the public transport problems through pushing up the cost of living.

Australia especially New South Wales is always copping price increases from transport to electricity and there is no justification for any of it as its never improved services or lead to Australia born getting hired its always foreigners under this liberal government policies.
