

Author name: J. Davies

Date of submission: Monday, 7 May 2018

Submission: As I have just installed a PV unit, one point that has become evident but rarely considered is the capital outlay involved. Regardless of the consumption of electricity, we are still obliged to pay a standing charge even though we have subsidised the State by our expenditure. It seems reasonable that there should be a reduction in our standing charge to reflect that.