

Author name: J. McInerney

Date of submission: Monday, 7 May 2018

Submission: I feel that the whole of the electricity system is getting to be the biggest sham in many years. While current conservative governments are doing all they can to support the Coal industry, we the people who put solar panels on our roof of our houses to help cut the shortfall in generation caused by governments not keeping up with maintenance and replacement of power stations, they now want to pay us a fraction of the cost to generate power by coal. we should be able to expect to be paid something near the cost of generation by coal fired power.