Following the Paris Agreement and alluded to again in the 4 Corners program last night (08.05.17) to have any chance of containing global warming we must stop using fossil fuels IMMEDIATELY. If we don't global warming will become out of control if it is not already and within a decade human habitation on this planet will become very, very limited. Millions of our species, and others, will be wiped out.

It is time to stop frigging around with the deck shares and political (business) vested interests for votes and focus on the human need.

Renewable energy as proven in many countries in the Northern Hemisphere, is a no brainer. Yes, we may have to do with less in the transition phase but better that than hopelessness and certain demise in the future..
