

Author name: S. Walker

Date of submission: Tuesday, 2 October 2018

Submission: The metering practices that are in place to install a meter thru the retailers is a complete joke. I was doing meters for EA for nearly 20 yrs and now my authorisation is worthless as I can even do it for them unless I do another 4 day course and then a 2 day mentoring and then be expected to work for them for next to nothing. Great example I did a fire emergency job today there retailer Is DoDo and the retailer couldn't even tell them where they can get there metering from. We powered it up now the client gets a insurance company to house them until the retailer can get there. Not sure why a un broken system was turned upside down.