

SUBMISSION TO IPART REVIEW
SOLAR FEED-IN TARIFFS 2017/18

Friday, 19 May 2017

12:31:30 PM

I feel angry that some energy providers can simply steal the power generated and maintained by me, and on sell it, often back to me, without having to give me any compensation.

The only difference between this and armed robbery is the gun.

They have the gall to charge me a supply fee but do not pay me any supply fee.

If I simply stole their generated power, charged a supply fee, and deemed that I will pay only 6.1c/KWh, I would be thrown In gaol.

A compulsory, properly regulated feed-in tariff should be set for these greedy, unconscionable retailers, that is geared to the variable wholesale price of electricity.

A fair price would reflect the true value of solar for its environmental and other inherent benefits.

Energy retailers currently insult us by claiming that they do not have to pay anything, then out of the goodness of their heart deem that 6.1c/KWh is OK.

How the hell is this a decent figure?

Timothy Ashford

Postcode: 2118