SOLAR FEED-IN TARIFFS 2017/18

I sincerely support a fair price for solar, the feed-in tariff should increase in line with the wholesale price of electricity. The feed-in tariff should not just be a benchmark range, it should be regulated so retailers have to offer it as a minimum, and this should represent the true value of solar, this means recognising the environmental and health benefits and the network benefits of rooftop solar.

Since installing solar panels, approximately eight years ago, I had not had to pay for my electricity until the first quarter in 2017, after the solar rebate scheme ended.
