

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Thursday, 14 June 2018

Submission: The metering process has become a complete mess, and somehow is going to become worse as of the 1st of July. The retailers should not have any control or input into the installation of metering, it should be controlled under fair trading using a single brand of meters (EDMI). The customers are suffering, electrical contractors are suffering and as a result people are just going to not put paperwork in on jobs because it's becoming a large process and problem when its a simple job.