Submission: I have been a level 2 accredited electrician with Ausgrid for 20 years. With my builders at present we are using Origin Energy. The service they have provided to one of my builders who builds upwards of 1000 homes a year has been a disgrace. We have been waiting up to 4 months to have metering installed and have homes completed ready to hand over to the owner with no metering. I have decided not to get accredited to install the meters as the money getting paid is not worth the hassle involved.
