

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Monday, 11 January 2016

Submission: - Increasing travel cap from 8 to 10 trips will see more people stop using public transport as it will no longer be cost-effective for them.

- Charging people for the longest journeys taken during a week will mean more commuters will have to have higher balances on their opal cards, which a lot of them wont be willing to do, and will be an incentive for them to not use public transport.