

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Monday, 1 February 2016

Submission: I understand the need to close the loophole that sees people maxing out their 8 trips on a Monday to get free rides later in the week. however the 8 free rides idea incentivises people to use public transport and should be encouraged. I cannot believe that Ipart hasn't thought of the idea of leaving the free rides after 8 trips in place but instead capping the number of qualifying trips each day to a maximum of two. Doing this would allow free travel on Friday, Saturday and Sunday for those that travel to and from work Monday to Friday - and thats whats the original intent of the free rides after 8 trips was meant for. I suppose i've wasted my time writing this suggestion but I couldn't let it go without me having a say ... I hope you see the sense in my idea and consider implementing it. I'd like a reply to my proposal please indicating why or why not you wont adopt my suggestion. Regards [REDACTED]