Submission: I am totally opposed to changing the seniors cap from $2.50... so many older people are having to watch their money and to make public transport more expensive is to limit their ability to be out and about, remain connected to their communities and friends and create more loneliness and feeling of isolation especially if they can't afford or have wisely chosen to give up driving. . This in turn will result in poorer mental and physical health outcomes, which will result in greater burden on the health system etc. Not only that but remember too, when they are out and about they probably enjoy a cup of coffee or a show or a browse in the shops so still contribute to the retail business economy.

As a society we should be supporting and aiding our elders to have fulfilling lives and mobility is a large part of that.
