

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Friday, 22 January 2016

Submission: This is completely insane. Cityrail is almost the most expensive transport on earth, while it's the worst in the world. With regular drlays & track work every week, how would cityrail worth this price? It doesn't even worth the current price. This is completely not acceptable.

I've never heard any public service in the world ever increase the price so dramatically, even far higher than inflation rate. This huge increase is simply a robbery of commuters' money who've suffered enough because of bad economy.

If the fare really goes up like that, I would give up public transport & drive to work. I believe a lot of other commuters would do the same, because we are left no choice.

Screw the gov who keeps asking people to save the environment.