

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Wednesday, 3 February 2016

Submission: Where you do expect people to find an extra 50 bucks for the first week and so much there after, so that you pay for all trips (more expensive) and get re-imbursed later.

I have not had a pay rise for 2 years and won't be getting one any time soon.

On October 4 our Journey times increased up to an hour each way by the removal of all buses in the CBD, or you can pay an extra $1100 a year. Whilst this proposal is cheaper for using trains it still works out at $350 to $500 a year more than when we had Buses that went direct to Railway Square.

What is the answer to stop the rorters as you call them making short trips...

After 6 trips all trips should be free, except that you are charged the difference for any additional trips that are more expensive than any cheaper trips during the week.

Once a person has taken 6 expensive trips there is no need to be charged any further.

This way you only need to have enough funds to cover the 6 most expensive trips rather than requiring enough funds to cover an entire weeks travel.

6 trips is picked as some of us are in for a 20% fare increase as your proposal indicates.

How about you so called experts come to Wynyard Stand B and note all those Sardines on the E86,E87 E88 and E89 are travelling over 25km.

Note that if your proposal gets the go-ahead I will be left with a few options, tag off early after 2 stops and hope not to be caught by the goon squad (ticket inspectors)

Or walk 50KM every single day with 5 hours sleep and 1 meal per day.