

Author name: Anonymous

Date of submission: Wednesday, 3 February 2016

Submission: As a 62 year old who has now retired, I greatly enjoy the $2.50 cap on public transport in Sydney.

Sure, I could afford a $9 cap, but what a shame to remove this little treat for the oldies.

I get no pension and no seniors health card. Can't we just leave this one alone? My one benefit?

By the way, the $2.50 cap encourages me to use public transport. The $9 cap, in some instances, will see me opting for my car.