Submission: I consider it one of the only concessions made available to me as a retiree, having paid tax all my working life. It allows me great freedom to engage in volunteering & keep mobile & active without needing to consider the expense. It also means I rarely use my car for city travel. I live near a station & thank the government every day for this liberating possibility. If there was a moderate increase in cost I could understand but to consider a 4 fold increase would be outrageous & change the lives of many older people just like me.
