

Author name: J. Fissenden

Date of submission: Wednesday, 3 February 2016

Submission: I am opposed to this increase. I am currently a self funded retiree. However due to my limited income I am living on approx $23,000 a year. Which is I believe similar to what a person on a pension would be existing on.

If I had to pay $9.00 a day for transport I would probably start using a car again. As this would be the approx daily cost of owning and running a car.

Maybe this move will push more people into applying for a pension, which would severely strain your budget.

It will also stop me personally having the mobility and social life that I currently enjoy.

Very disappointed that a liberal government would take this step to disadvantage its older citizens, who after all STILL VOTE.