Submission: I am disagree with this change. Firstly, it is obviously a bad news for anyone who use public transport. People use public transport because it is cheaper, If using public transport need to pay such high price, they may prefer to use car. Secondly, there are plenty of ways to solve the problem that someone take advantage from "after 8 times then free". For example, it can be charge the 2 highest fee a day, if do this 4 days, then the else free. Last but not least, the prices of second-hand car and petrol are so cheap now, it seems like the government encourage citizen to buy more car and use less public transport : )
