Submission: How is the government allowed to change the structure of the Opal system when they have removed all other ways of paying for transport. In the past, people could buy daily, weekly, monthly even yearly tickets, now there is Opal only and there is soon no real discount if the government changes the way it work. Why should commuters pay for the Minister's ridiculous invitation for people to "cheat the system".

I feel like the government has cheated the public, they took away choice and gave us a system that will now be soo much more expensive over time. The train system isn't even the greatest and now we will be forced to pay a lot more. The public needs a reason to use the public transport, I would rather use my car if the bus and train is going to cost an arm and a leg and I was a strong advocate for Opal and using public transport. Please don't allow the government to change the pricing structure.
