I am a senior and use the trains and buses frequently and if there is going to be a large price hike I would feel that my life will be severely hampered. I use the bus to go to see a movie or going to the theatre as well as shopping and it's lovely to catch the ferry up to Parramatta or the train to Newcastle. I use public transport almost every day and I would find myself not going out nearly as much and therefore not spending when I go out unless I had to and I'm sure other seniors would feel the same. What will happen to the economy no body goes out so no body spends

Thank you
