Submission: The new fare is horrendous and doesn't suit the people travelling for far away areas. ideally those people should be given discounts rather than penalising them. 65$ is too high a weekly fare and leaves people like me with zero discount since we travel only to city and not during weekends. I am sure this is the case with most working class who end up making 10 trips only for work for 5 days. What we need is some overall discount per week on the total trips or else keep the 8 trip rule as of now. so I don't support this change at all.
