

Author name: R. Handsaker

Date of submission: Wednesday, 3 February 2016

Submission: I loved the introduction of the opal card, quick and efficient. Well done.

The new proposed pricing however means mine will remain in my wallet unused.

My wife and I travel together to work the weekly commute will add up to about $100.

I just filled my car for $50 and that will also last for other travel needs, it's also much cleaner, quicker, and much more enjoyable to ride in.

One step forward two steps back, one day governments will wake up and realise we should all be using fast, cheap and reliable public transport, we have a long way to go.

Goodbye opal hello air conditioned comfort what a shame.