Submission: Hi

I have worked hard during my working life to ensure that I am not a burden on either the Federal or NSW government in retirement.

The only "bonus" I receive for this effort is the $2.50 travel card.

The proposed transport changes proposed tell me I should not have not bothered to become self-sufficient, and just become one of the many who live by the "world owes me a living" concept or just spend my retirement funds down so I can hold my hand out for a life on the government purse.

Give those who bother to become self-sufficient and make sacrifices for an independent retirement one break in life for the effort.

Leave the $2.50 ticket price alone!

Regards
