

Author name: W. Crowe

Date of submission: Monday, 21 December 2015

Submission: I support all of the findings made by the report and see it as a good way to balance the way fares are structured using the Opal system without compromising the fare base. Fare pricing currently favours commuters who take a large number of rides a week or make time to game the system, while people who telecommute once or more a week subsidise those commuters. Combination fares for those commuters who take several modes of transport will provide for a more efficiently used network, where crowding is spread across modes and routes rather than concentrated. Thanks for reading.