

To whom it may concern,

I strongly oppose any move by Railcorp to rise the fares on trains for the following reasons:

A) The frequency of trains is now less under the new timetable

B) Trains are significantly more crowded then they were under the new time table

C) An unacceptable amount of trains still not arrive and depart metropolitan stations in a timely manner

D) Functionality such as air conditioned trains still does not reach many of the trains servicing Sydney commuters.

Kind Regards,

Andrew Innes
