

15/03/2006 05:13 PM

late for work too many times!

City rail costs me enough money making me late for work!

On Wednesday the 15th of March travelling along the Cronulla line towards the city, we were told that due to a signal failure at Redfern, the trains would travel along the city circle line and not continue to Bondi Junction once we passed Redfern.

This didn't bother me, as I needed to go onto the city circle to travel to Wynard. The train arrived at Redfern, where after travelling at an incredibly slow speed for 5 minutes we were told the train would terminate at Redfern due to 'congestion' of the city circle.

A peak hour train cancelled, along with many others on the other Redfern platforms. I was half an hour late for work.

That's an extra 8$ CityRail has cost me.