

Neil Sammons
29/03/2006

Rail fare increases

To whom it may concern,

I (along with my fellow commuters) are fed up with the 'service' Railcorp supposedly provide.

How about they get the current system working before charging long suffering commuters more for essentially providing less.

Look at fares on all the rail systems in the world & you'll find Sydneysiders are paying substantially more for a grossly inferior system.

The sad fact of the matter is that the majority of Sydney's commuters have no other option but to use the trains. We're a captive audience & as such should be treated with a little more respect than the current contempt that is thrown in our faces everyday.

Regards,
Neil Sammons